Commercial Club's Informal Banquet

Proves to be Most Pleasant and Profitable Occasion For All Who Attend It at Palmer House

BUSINESS IS TRANSACTED

Several Industrial Projects Receive Encouragement and Excellent Suggestions Are Made

SEVERAL SPEECHES HEARD

Over 100 business men, the majority members of the Commercial club, sat down to an informal dinner at the Palmer House last evening, and concluded with one of the most enthusiastic meetings the organization has ever held. President H. C. Rhodes presided and a number of those present around the board responded to toasts. All of them were more or less impromptu and entirely informal, but the facts brought out will greatly aid the club in promoting the interests of Paducah.

So well pleased was everybody with the meeting, that by a rising vote, it was unanimously decided to hold a similar meeting next month at the Belvedere hotel.

The business session followed the banquet and then speeches were called for.

County Attorney Alben Barkley confined himself principally to the uses and purposes of a Commercial club and the duty of citizens to rally to its support.

Senator Campbell Wheeler, whose term in the legislature acquainted him with civic needs, declared that a revision of taxes was to encourage the location of industries in Kentucky is urgently needed. He urged the club to join in the movement to secure revision.

Hon. E. W. Bagby, L. B. Ogilvie, J. S. Ross and Alderman Earl Palmer made ringing speeches, full of enthusiasm and earnestness in the work of the club.

J. T. Donovan, local agent for the Illinois Central, always happy on such occasions and popular with everybody, brought down the house with the emphatic declaration that Paducah is as well favored as any neighboring city in the matter of freight rates, and pledged his word that the Illinois Central will do anything to make equitable anything complained of.

He was followed by Superintendent Egan, who said he had just signed a monthly payroll of $118,000, and that the month's freight business out of Paducah amounted to $30,000. He advised the Commercial club to encourage industries not associated with the lumber business.

Mr. Johnson urged everybody to encourage local industries, especially the cigar business. He said 600,000 are smoked in Paducah every month.

Business Session. Mr. Rumey, representing an important industry located in Indiana, was present by invitation and addressed the club in relation to locating his enterprise in Paducah for the manufacture of novelties and bric-a-brac. The committee having the matter in hand will try and induce him to remain in Paducah.

A communication was read from Mr. D. C. Smith, a local mechanic, desiring to organize a company to manufacture hay presses. This was referred to the industrial committee and will meet every possible encouragement.

A lengthy letter was received from a Detroit promoter, who is endeavoring to organize a company to put the local iron furnace in operation.

A request received from the Nashville board of trade, asking the Commercial interests of Paducah to join in a visit to the Panama canal belt. Any one in Paducah interested in such a visit should communicate with the secretary of the board of trade at Nashville.

Acknowledgment of important resolutions passed by the Commercial club were read from President Theodore Roosevelt, Congressman O'Leary, M. James, Sen. J. B. McCreary, Geo. P. Cortelyou and from the department of commerce and labor.

SOME FACTS STATED.
There are 600,000 cigars smoked in Paducah every month.—Mr. Johnson.
Monthly local payroll of I. C. is $118,000.—Supt. Egan, I. C.
Freight on goods shipped via I. C. in February, $30,000.—Supt. Egan, I. C.
Revision of taxes will promote industries in Kentucky.—Senator Wheeler Campbell.
We should secure new industries not connected with lumber business.—Supt. Egan, I. C.
People of Paducah must back the Commercial club.—County Attorney Alben Barkley.

additions of membership to the club since last meeting.

A special committee consisting of James Wellie, Frank L. Scott and W. P. Hummel were appointed by President Rhodes, with instructions to make every possible effort to induce the purchasers of the Paducah Saddlery company's business to remain in Paducah.

THE LID LIFTERS GET FREE LIQUOR

Just Help Themselves and Waggoner Escapes Consequences Usually Attendant on Open Saloon

SET FREE IN THE POLICE COURT.

Professional "lid lifters," were shown up as novices in the game of quenching thirst on Sunday in the trial this morning of Cal Waggoner, saloonkeeper on South Second street, for violating the Sunday closing law; and the power of example was illustrated most forcefully. The testimony shows that no liquor was sold or given away, but four lusty thirsts were satisfied, and were possessed by the four witnesses who were found drinking in the saloon by Patrolmen Brennen and Shelby last Sunday morning at 10 o'clock.

Patrolmen Brennen and Shelby testified that when they entered the saloon these four men were standing at the bar drinking beer. They did not see any money change hands but the bartender was behind the bar. The four witnesses agreed upon the same line of testimony, asserting that the beer was neither given nor sold to them but that they simply helped themselves on their own invitation. Mr. Waggoner was in the saloon at the time and said he could not supply their wants but walked over to the ice chest and took a bottle himself. Then he walked out and the four witnesses proceeded to follow his example. After walking behind the bar and taking a bottle apiece without any protest from the "barkeep," they fled up alongside the bar on the outside and inveigled themselves into thinking they were getting their drinks in the regular fashion. They were in this attitude when the patrolmen entered.

Testimony showed that none of the four witnesses were in the habit of going to Waggoner's saloon. Some sort of telegraphic connection probably directed them to the place, where one can drink and not pay for the pleasure. No testimony was introduced to show that the drinks were sold or given away, and the warrant was dismissed. There was no indignation shown by Mr. Waggoner at their conduct. Hon. Hal Corbett defended Waggoner.

STREET CAR STRIKE IS LIKELY IN LOUISVILLE

Louisville, March 6.—Employees of the street railway having been refused recognition as a union, will vote together on the question of a strike.

There is only one kind of a newspaper circulation statement that is worth any consideration and that is the daily detailed statement. The Sun is the only Paducah paper printing such a statement.

J. A. CARNAGEY AS SUPERINTENDENT

Elected Unanimously Last Night by Board

Local Men Were Not Mentioned and Only One Name Was Placed in Nominations.

MAKING RULES FOR SCHOOLS.

J. A. Carnagey, of Noblesville, Ind., was elected superintendent of the Paducah public schools at the meeting of the school board last night. He leaves a position paying $1,400 a year for a salary of $2,000 paid here, and schools with an enrollment of 1,375, for the schools here, with an enrollment of 3,700. Mr. Carnagey has had 18 years' experience as a superintendent, 11 years in Noblesville and seven years in Columbus, Ind. Personally he is over six feet tall and is affable in his manners.

No other candidate was placed in nomination. Just before the election, the board went into executive session to discuss nominations and a unanimous agreement to elect Mr. Carnagey was reached. Mr. Beckenbach made the nomination. No date was set for the inception of the contract, and as Superintendent Lieb's contract does not expire until September 1, it is presumed that the committee that will draw up the contract with Mr. Carnagey, will date it from September 1.

Visitors were offered the opportunity to address the board before the election, and John Morris, of Covington, made a personal application for the position. He stated his qualifications and experience, but the mind of the board already had been made up. If any Paducah man was seriously considered for the position, it was not indicated last night. Several weeks ago the position of superintendent was offered to Prof. E. G. Payne, principal of the High school, but he declined the offer. Forty-seven applications were received.

Shorter Hours.
Two schedules for shorter hours in the schools were offered by Trustee Beckenbach. The first one suggests opening the schools at 8:30 o'clock in the morning and closing at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon with a twenty or thirty minute intermission for lunch. The second one suggests opening at 8:45 o'clock letting out at 11:15 o'clock for lunch; opening at 1:15 o'clock in the afternoon and letting out at 3:15 o'clock. For the primary grades in the second schedule the closing time at noon and in the afternoon would be 15 minutes shorter. No action was taken, it being the plan as suggested by Mr. Beckenbach to leave the members of the board to feel the public pulse on the question to find what schedule will be preferable.

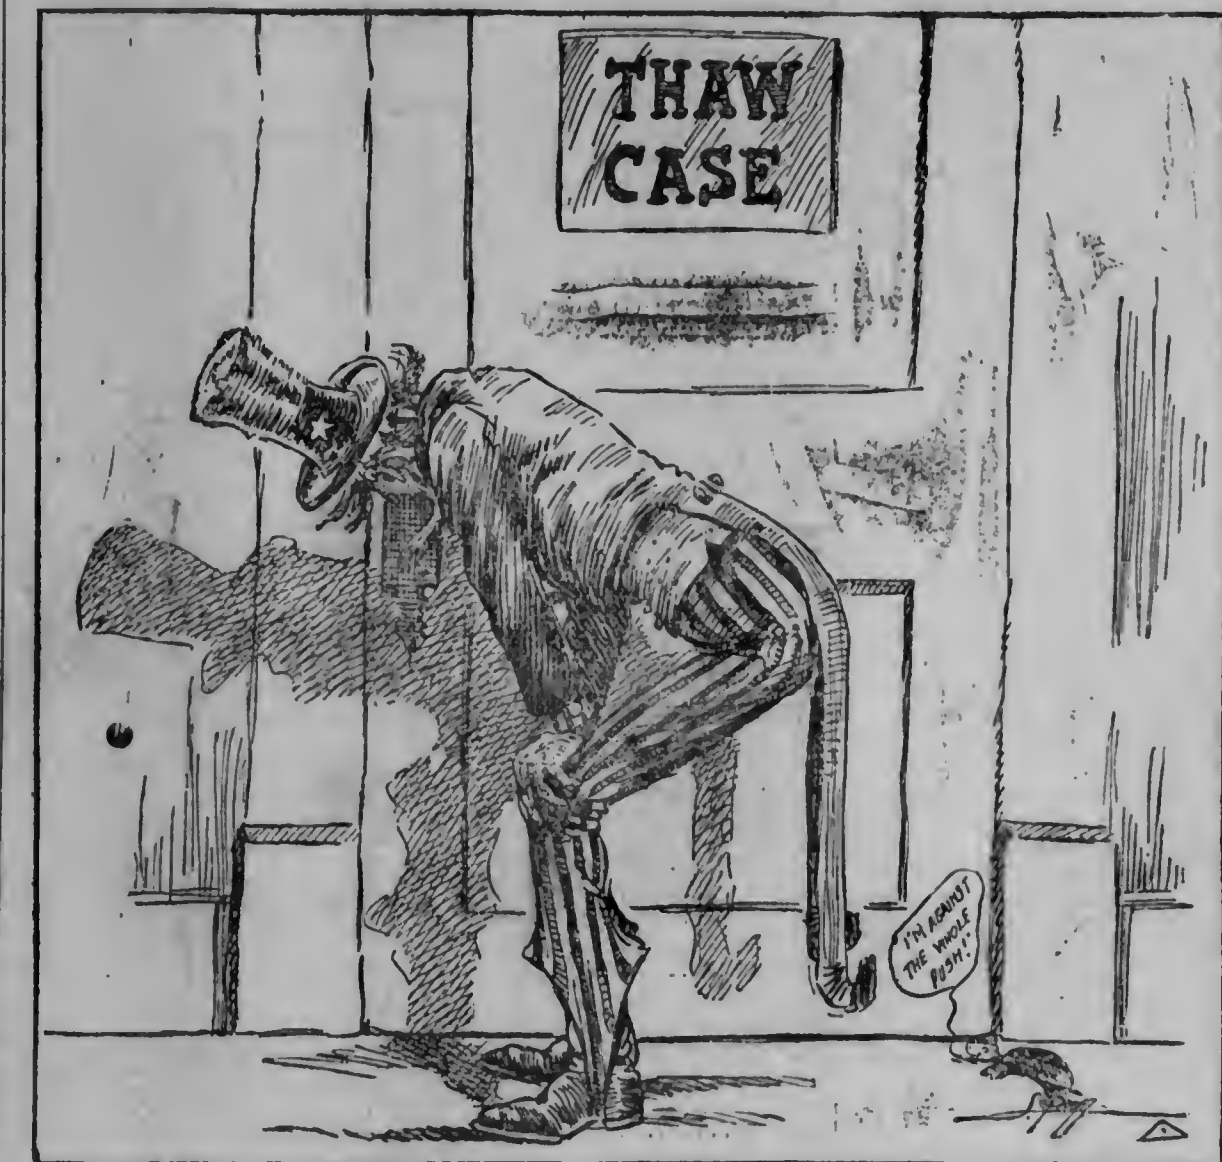

Another change in the schools is probable the board will make, will be the return to the old plan of having an eighth grade in every building and not have all eighth grades converging in the Washington building as at present. Such a change would necessitate more teachers, and consequently greater expense, and expense is something the board will have to consider before the year's end. Money is being expended now at the rate of $5,000 a month and the treasury is getting low. Without financing for a new building, the board will be fortunate to close the year without a deficit. The finance report will show something over $12,000 in the treasury after February bills and salaries are paid.

Trustee Beckenbach laid another change before the board for a month's consideration, in suggesting that the principal of the High school should be elected to devote his whole time to the affairs around the building, and not do any teaching now done by the principal. He did not think that under the present arrangement, the principal does or could give enough time to his duties as such.

School Enumerators.
Enumerators were elected to take the school census in April as follows: G. W. Brown, First and Second wards; J. M. Gilbert, Third and Fourth wards; John Teisman, Fifth and Sixth wards. They will be required to give bonds.

Superintendent Lieb in his monthly report asked to have specified the extent to which he should enforce the board's regulations in regard to children who have had scarlet fever returning to school. The regulation of the board requires 42 days' absence. Also he asked whether the

The N. C. & St. L. Engineers Get An Increase of Ten Per Cent

Engineers on the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis have been granted an increase in pay effective yesterday, and it is anticipated that the raise will reach 10 per cent. The Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis engineers have been granted annual raises for three successive years.

"I do not know exactly what the raise will be," said an engineer. "We get paid for the mileage we make, and are not gauged by the size of cylinder as the Illinois Central engineers are. We get paid the same on all classes of engine, and I think the raise will average 10 per cent."

The raise is a result of a demand made on the road several months ago.

allow them to hold Arbor Day exercises to plant a cherry tree on the grounds of the Washington building, was granted. The state judges the members have been telling caused President List to tell the board that it was not a chestnut tree they wanted to plant. That caused amusement as did Secretary Byrd's mistakes.

All the members were present except Trustee Metcalfe, who was prevented attending by sickness. Although Trustees Kelly and Brame, elected to fill vacancies, have never technically qualified before the board and been formally seated, they have been discharging the duties of members and on committees.

FOR IMMIGRATION CLUB WILL WORK

This city is going after part of the $2,000 set aside by the state legislature for the promoting of immigration. The state board of agriculture forestry and labor, which has control of the funds, meets in Louisville next week. This city is the only one aggressively engaged in promoting immigration and the money can be usefully spent here. Secretary Coons, of the Commercial club, will appear before the board in Louisville.

CHANGE OF VENUE.
Jackson, Ky., March 6.—Judge Carver today granted a change of venue to Elliott county in the case of Judge Hargis, accused of complicity in the assassination of Dr. Cox. The commonwealth attorney was much chagrined over the judge's action. Sandy Hook, the county seat, where the case is to be tried, has 148 inhabitants. The county has neither telegraph or railroad.

Strike Declared Off.
Bethlehem, Penn., March 6.—A strike declared yesterday by trainmen of the Lehigh Valley & New England railroad came to an abrupt end today when officials agreed to reinstate the discharged brakemen. All traffic is running as usual.

GRAIN MARKET.
Cincinnati, March 6.—Wheat, 79; corn, 40; oats, 46 1-2.

Nine Killed in Explosion.
El Paso, Tex., March 6.—Two explosions in the rock quarry of the Chihuahua and Pacific railroad at Sandoval, Chihuahua, yesterday, killed nine men and seriously injured nine others.

PELL OVERBOARD AND WAS DROWNED

Reports reached Paducah last night that J. W. Money-maker, of Kuttawa, a deckhand on the towboat Birmingham, fell overboard in Alabama yesterday and was drowned. The boat was bound up river after a tow of five. The body has not been recovered. Money-maker was married and had a family. He was a middle aged man.

GREGORY HEIGHTS' STREET CAR LINE

With the consummation today of a deal between the Gregory Heights company and the Paducah Traction company, the traction company agrees to extend its Wallace park line a mile, traversing the main boulevard of Gregory Heights, the consideration being $12,000 paid by the land company to the traction company. The work of extending the track will be started as soon as the weather permits. Routes are now being considered, the most likely turning from the park line at the lake on Friedman boulevard. Gregory Heights will be laid off by landscape artists with a central park and 100 feet boulevards. Concrete paving will be done.

Lincoln's Friend Dead.
Sterling, Ill., March 6.—Mrs. Eliza Wilson, aged 96 years, died here yesterday. She was the intimate friend of Abraham Lincoln and once loaned him her saddle horse to make a campaign tour in Sagamon county.

THAW IS INSANE IS PRESUMPTION

Jerome Startles Defense by His Assertion of the Law on the Facts

TIFF WITH PRESIDING JUDGE

Has Dr. Wagner, Alienist, On Stand for Two Days Concerning Secrets of Insanity.

BATTLING NELSON'S COMMENT

New York, March 6.—Battling Nelson, the pugilist, was a spectator at the Thaw trial this morning. He attracted attention. His comment was: "Thaw should be given a medal for what he done." Assistant District Attorney Garvin said Mrs. William Thaw, mother of the defendant, might not be called to the stand today. He intimated Jerome would take up much time in cross-examination of Dr. Wagner.

Wagner was called for cross-examination. Jerome plunged into the secret of insanity analysis with characteristic vigor. Dr. Wagner said during his testimony that insane people often tell of persecution when they have no knowledge of right or wrong.

Jerome concluded the cross-examination of Wagner at noon. Just before releasing the witness Jerome took a new tact making an effort to show that Thaw was intoxicated when he killed White. Wagner, however, gave the district attorney no satisfaction along this line. Mrs. William Thaw was called as a witness at the afternoon session.

Thaw is Insane Now.

Interest which was aroused in the Thaw trial by the announcement that Mrs. William Thaw, mother of the defendant, would take the witness stand, was quickly dulled by the continued cross-examination of Dr. Wagner one of the alienists for the defense by Jerome. Wagner was on the stand the entire day and when adjournment was announced, the district attorney seemed to have much ground yet to cover with the expert.

Mrs. Thaw was present in the witness room waiting to be called, but she may not be reached before late tomorrow or Thursday.

Jerome and Justice Clash.

While decidedly dull in the matter of testimony elicited from the witness, the session was made notable by a clash between Jerome and Justice Fitzgerald, at the climax of which the prosecuting officer refused point blank to elicit to the court, authorities upon which he was conducting an argument. Jerome was requested by the presiding judge to submit to him whatever authorities he had upon the subject.

"I have such high respect for the courts of this jurisdiction," retorted Jerome, "that I will not submit authorities on a question of law which is so elemental in character and upon which authorities are so abundant that I must presume the learned court knows of them."

With flushed face and a sharp rap of his gavel, Fitzgerald said if the district attorney did not submit his authorities, the court would assume he did not know of any. Jerome did not submit the authorities and Fitzgerald ruled in favor of the defense on the point at issue, which, briefly stated, was a question as to whether the state on cross examination should be allowed to go further with the expert witness than the counsel for the defense was allowed to go upon direct examination.

Judge Rules for Defense.

During the course of his argument the district attorney placed himself on record by saying that the legal assumption before the court today is that Harry K. Thaw is insane. He declared the alienists for the defense shown Thaw to have been insane as late as September 22, last, and in absence of proof to the contrary, the assumption is that he remains insane.

Fitzgerald declared the present jury only has to do with the question of Thaw's sanity or insanity on the night he shot and killed White.

Wagner was allowed to give his conversations with Thaw during the period he believed the defendant to be of unsound mind. He said Thaw remembered having approached and having shot White. He protested however he had not intended at any time to kill the man but wanted to have him legally punished.

Garden Ideas.

There are, in the planting of gardens, two wide differing ideas.
Either a man makes a garden with an eye to the effect, treating the ground as his canvas, the plants as colors to be laid in, everything heling subordinate to the general effect, or he considers the garden as a home for the plants, consulting their preferences holding it of more importance that his idea should be in precisely the right place for their own wellbeing than that they should be in view from the balcony. If he has an abundance of roses, it is because he loves them and cannot have too much of them rather than that he wants a notable effect in pink. Naturally, these two ideas work into and involve each other. Sometimes they unite in one and the same garden, in which case one feels the wisdom of Tennyson's remark that "two dear things make one of double worth."

It is this latter type of garden which predominates in Charleston.
A very notable effectiveness and the more intangible quality of lovableness rarely go hand in hand; but for a garden within one's gates an intimate and endearing charm is better than the most brilliant effect from the street; on the same principle that, if a man must spend his life with one woman, loveliness is better, in the long run, than a striking beauty, though twice pleasant to have both.—From Frances Duncan's
"Charleston Gardens" in the Century.

Fine Residence Burned.
Mayfield, Ky., March 6.—The new and handsome residence of Mrs. M.
E. Melon, north of the city just across the city limits, was completely destroyed by fire Tuesday morning about 6 o'clock. The house was a two-story structure with ten rooms and was practically new, having been constructed last summer. The contents was also a total loss with the exception of a piano and the fixtures of one room belonging to a boarder.
The house was valued at $5,000. It was handsomely furnished throughout and the loss of the furniture and other articles will fall quite heavy.
There was $2,000 insurance on the house and $1,000 on the household fixtures.

NOTED AUTHORITY SAYS THIS SIMPLE HOME-MADE MIXTURE WILL RELIEVE CATARRH.

This winter, as last, will prove a harvest for the doctors and patent medicine manufacturers unless great cure is taken to dress warm and keep the feet dry.

This is the advice of a well-known local physician and should be heeded by all who are subject to rheumatism, kidney and bladder troubles and especially catarrh. While the latter is considered by most sufferers an incurable disease, there are few men or women who will fail to experience great relief from the following simple home prescription, and if taken in time it may prevent an attack of catarrh during the entire season.

Here is the prescription which any one can mix: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Castor oil, one ounce; Shake well in a bottle and use in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime.

These are all vegetable ingredients and can be obtained from any good prescription pharmacy at small cost.

The Compound Kargon in this prescription acts directly upon the eliminative tissues of the kidneys to make them filter and strain from the blood, the poisons that produce all forms of catarrhal affections. Relief is often felt even after the first few doses and it is seldom that a sufferer ever experiences a return attack within the year.

This prescription makes a splendid remedy for all forms of blood disorders and such symptoms as lame back, bladder weaknesses and rheumatism pains are entirely dispelled.
As this valuable prescription comes from a thoroughly reliable source, it should be heeded by every afflicted reader.

With a rise of .9 since yesterday, a shack in the rising river is noticeable and it is probable that the river under the present impulse will not go over one or two feet higher. The stage this morning was 31.4. The stage March 6 last year was 21.1.
Business at the wharf this week has been heavier than in many weeks.
Today the wharfbait is still blocked off with freight.

The Grey Eagle of the Leyhe fleet will leave this afternoon for St.
Louis to enter the St. Louis and Ohio Girardeau trade.

The Buttrick will lose 24 hours all around this week, not arriving from Clarksville and leaving Thursday at noon for Nashville instead of today.

Big business made the City of Memphis late and that packet will not get away on time this evening for the Tennessee river. The Memphis had a big lumber trip to Joppa.

Louis Berger, a pilot on the Dick Fowler, got left in Calto yesterday.
Roy Broadfoot, the chief pilot took sick and Les Broadfoot is filling the position.

The Georgia Lee will arrive Friday this week from Memphis having got away on time, and the Peters Lee will leave Cincinnati today arriving here Saturday.

The John Hopkins and the Joe Fowler exchanged schedules when the Hopkins got back into the trade, after breaking a shaft several weeks ago and have never got righted. It was supposed that they would be late so much that they would fall back into their regular schedules, but they have been on good time ever since and the wharfbait people are praying they never will get straight. The John Hopkins got in early this morning and left on time for Evansville.

Officers on the Dick Fowler have been changed frequently in the last few days. Frank Motinski, second clerk, got sick yesterday and Dick Wilks is checking freight. Pete Wilton, mate, is off attending a sick brother, and the regular pilot is sick. The Dick Fowler got away just the same on time with a good trip for Calto this morning.

The Mary Michael left today for the Mississippi river after a tow of logs.

The Lyda was coaling up this morning preparatory to leaving after a tow of ties.

Charles Brigmeyer, a Boigian sailor who is watchman at the dry docks, has made a four-masted schooner three feet long, which is an exact representation of that kind of sailing vessel. The rigging is complete in every detail and even to the soldiers on board, nothing is lacking in the model. It has required several weeks of patient work to make and will be shown in one of the windows of a leading downtown store. He has painted it in the colors of his country's flag. Brigmeyer was a sailor for many years and like numerous examples on the inland rivers, has drifted into steamboat work. All steamboats have a sailor man to splice ropes and do other work aboard.

The City of Saltillo will arrive on Thursday night from the Tennessee river on the through trip to St.

Louis.

Official Forecasts.

The Ohio at Evansville and Mt.
Vernon will continue to rise slowly during the next 24 to 36 hours. At Paducah and Calto will continue rising during the next three days. The water in sight this morning will give Calto a stage of between 37 and 38 feet.

The Tennessee at Florence and Riverton will fall during the next 24 to 36 hours. At Johnsonville will begin falling today.

The Mississippi from Chester to slightly above Calto, will continue to fall slowly during the next 24 hours.

The Wabash, at Mt. Carmel, no material change during the next 24 hours.

Student May Be Insane.

Chicago, March 6.—Richard Hoopes, the student burglar, will be taken to Lake Forest today by his father, a prominent lawyer, of Kokomo, Ind., who arrived this morning.
He believes his son is irresponsible for his acts. Two years ago Richard fell from a bicycle and sustained concussion of the brain. Since then his actions have been erratic. The father will ask the court to commit the prisoner to a sanitarium.

THEATRICAL NOTES

Proving Popular.

The Gertrude Ewing company was greeted with another large and enthusiastic audience last night.
"Slaves of the Orient" was the play.
The entire company were seen to better advantage than on Monday night.
The play contains plenty of good comedy and lots of thrilling climaxes.
The honors were divided last night between Miss Ewing as Zuleika the queen of the harem, and Mr. Dean, as Ensign Carter, of the flagship Brooklyn. Miss Ewing was sweet and charming and won new laurels, while Mr. Dean gained many admirers by his splendid work last night and established himself a favorite. Mr. J.
G. Stutzman, as the slave owner, Abdullah Hamed, was at his best and succeeded in making himself well hated.
Mr. William N. Swift played Kephen the slave, in an acceptable manner.
Mr. Charles Colville created lots of fun in the role of Sammy Green, the Bowery boy. Miss Jones, as Mrs.
Green, and Miss Rose Winderstar, as Stella, were deserving of special mention. The specialties between acts were a feature of the performance and added much to the general enjoyment of the large audience. The costumes worn last night elicited many favorable comments. This afternoon Miss Ewing and her company will put on a society farce comedy, "A Divorce Cure," and tonight
"The Mansion of Aching Hearts," a strong comedy-drama, which is announced as one of their best plays.

"Gingerbread Man."

When "The Gingerbread Man" was playing its annual engagement at the Grand Opera House in Chicago last October, the management of this musical extravaganza sent out a wagon loaded with 2,500 tiny gingerbread men which were to be given away to the public school children. The driver stopped in front of the Haven school in Wabash avenue, and when the youngsters, rushing out of school at 3 o'clock learned that gingerbread men were to be had for the asking, they stormed the wagon, climbed up on the wheels and created such a riot that the automobiles lined up in front of the Coliseum across the way were thrown into a state of excitement, while the ghauf-fours cheered the youngsters on. "The Gingerbread Man" will be seen at The Kentucky tomorrow night.

Solon De Miller, tenor, and Norman Stanley, baritone and middle man, members of the mammoth chorus with the Donnelly & Hatfield magnificent minstrels, are former members of two of the most noted church choirs in America. De Miller was for three years first tenor in the choir of the First Baptist church of Atlanta, Ga., which is one of the most famous edifices in the south. He received his early vocal education under the celebrated organist, John P.
O'Donnelly, and his voice has frequently been heard in grand opera.
Mr. De Miller is one of the youngest of American tenors who have achieved prominence in the last few years.
Norman Stanley is a Troy, New York, boy. He is possessed of a baritone voice of unusual range and was for several years a leader in the choir of the Third street Methodist church in Troy. He is scoring a big hit this season singing, "Though You Are Gone, You Are Not Forgotten." His rendition of "The Stars, The Stripes and You" is also proving an attractive feature of the magnificent first part of the Donnelly & Hatfield show.

THE CHANGE OF LIFE

Sensible Advice to Women from Mrs. Henry Lee, Mrs. Fred Certia and Mrs. Pinkham.

MRS. HENRY LEE

MRS. FRED CERTIA

Owing to modern methods of living not only woman in a thousand approaches this perfectly natural change without experiencing a train of very annoying and sometimes painful symptoms.

This is the most critical period of her whole existence and every woman who neglects the care of her health at this time invites disease and pain.
When her system is in a deranged condition or she is predisposed to apoplexy or congestion of any organ, the tendency is at this period likely to become active and with a host of nervous irritations make life a burden. At this time also cancers and tumors are more liable to form and begin their destructive work.

Such warning symptoms as sense of suffocation, hot flashes, headaches, backaches, melancholia, dread of impending evil, palpitation of the heart, irregularities, constipation and dizzilness are promptly heeded by intelligent women who are approaching the period of life when this great change may be expected.

Mrs. Fred Certia, 1014 So. Lafayette Street, So. Bend, Ind., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—
"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the ideal medicine for women who are passing through Change of Life. For several months I suffered from hot flashes, extreme nervousness, headache and sleeplessness. I had no appetite and could not sleep. I had made up my mind there was no help for me until I began to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, my bad symptoms ceased, and it brought me safely through the danger period, built up my system and I am in excellent health.

I consider Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound unsurpassed for women during this trying period of life."

Mrs. Henry Lee, 60 Winter Street,
New Haven, Conn., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—
"After suffering untold misery for three years during Change of Life I heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.
I wrote you of my condition, and began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and followed your advice, and to-day I am well and happy. I can now walk anywhere and work as well as anyone, and for years previous I had tried but could not get around without help. I consider your medicine a sovereign balm for suffering women."

Women passing through this critical period should rely upon Lydia E.
Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. If there is anything about your case you don't understand write to Mrs.
Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for advice. It is free and has guided thousands to health.

When a medicine has been successful in restoring to health, actually thousands of women, you cannot well say without trying it, "I do not believe it will help me." It is your duty to yourself and family to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

RARE SKELETON IS FOUND.

Bones of the Loxodophodon Secured From Southern Wyoming.

There arrived in New York last week for the Museum of Natural History the skeleton of a Loxodophodon. It was unearthed in southern Wyoming, where the great beast roamed in large numbers many centuries ago, by an expedition sent out from the museum by Prof. H. F. Osborn and headed by Prof. Walter Granger. Speaking of the success attending the search, Prof. Granger said:

"We found the skeleton of the largest mammal living at the time and for which we made careful search. This huge mammal was known as the Loxodophodon, a mixture of elephant and rhinoceros. It has six horns—two enormous ones in the back of the skull, two smaller ones over the eyes and two rudimentary horns on the tip of the nose.

"We obtained an interesting lot of the skeletons of the titanothere, a smaller animal than the last; numerous specimens of the caribou, including the largest of the time, the mesotherium, many rodents, or squirrel-like mammals; some of the earliest camel-like, even toothed, hoofed mammals; an athenodon, one of the very large, even toothed animals, with pig-like teeth and feet and an early primate like the Lemurs, athenodon. In all we obtained 100 species in the Washakie basin, 100 in the Hedges basin and 40 in the Wahsatch basin."

Social Customs Observed In the Colony of Virginia

The following interesting resume of events of colonial history happening in March, was read by Mrs. C. H. Chamblin, at the March meeting of the Paducah chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution:

Biographers have occasionally seemed to feel that something is due the mothers of their heroes. Women have some rights after all. After everybody has been toasted at the banquet, then to the song, "We won't go home 'till morning."

There is literature galore anent the women who have amused great men—Helen of Troy, the beautiful Greek woman and cause of Trojan war; Madame de Pompadour, Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, Lady Hamilton. However, it is not to these we shall give our time. It is the unselfish woman who must shine. We shall take Mary Washington, who was in no sense a commonplace woman. We are absorbed in the splendor of her career.

A few years ago an advertisement appeared that the "Grave of Mary Washington" was to be sold at public auction. A Washington Memorial association was formed and silver and gold medals, of her gentle face, were struck off. These were restricted to 600 American women. The Princess Enlalia of Spain and Marie Coon, descendant of Christopher Columbus, were admitted into this guard of honor.

A thousand patrons assured the success of a grand hall. From the governor of state to the country people far back in the mountain roads, sufficient funds were raised. Grover Cleveland dedicated the monument in the presence of a large concourse of people.

Mary Ball and Augustine Washington were married March 6, 1730. The snows had melted in the violet beds, and the "Snowbirds" were nesting in the cedars, when our Mary left her home to become the wife, Augustine Washington was a man of high standing, large property—Wakefield, the home was called, the Athens of Virginia. This was the time of the Golden Age.

The passing of the Golden Age of the colonies came at the time they were called in the midst of revelry by Massachusetts to war. Here was the first blood stain of the Revolution.

It may be worth our while to pause in our history to consider the dresses, dinners, dances and horse races of Virginian colonists, which the devout Puritans and grave Presbyterians of the northern neck never knew. They were holding a carnival before the storm. The English gentleman had come into great wealth through his tobacco. Pillared, porticoed, stately mansions were built. Who can describe a Virginia garden? A paradise of sweets in squares, crescents, stars and circles. The libraries were well chosen. As a source of comfort to the black cook and her many satellites, the kitchen was a long way from the house. The planter had the elegance of fine living, fine pictures by Sir Joshua Reynolds, hangings and tapestries of priceless value. One is amazed at their activity, forever passing up and down the rivers or across the country on horse back in chaises and chariots.

The superb barges were a theater of rivalry, the negro crews rowing them clad in snowy white uniforms. A neighborhood included everybody within a day's journey. Tables were furnished with burnished pewter and handsome silver. Knives were of fine Sheffield steel and served other use than cutting. How else did the colonial dame eat her peas, not with the little fork with two wide apart prongs? A story occurs to us: Mrs. Newbyrich eats to the servant, "Bridge, have the pens mashed for dinner."

"And why so, Mum?"

"Mash the peas, so they will not roll off Mr. Newbyrich's knife."

Guests frequently sat at table from 3 o'clock until night, when coffee, oysters, crabs, strawberries and cream were served. The punch bowl, julep and toddies were commonly used. The men would swear and play cards. The ladies would wear a "Hill" and the imported snuff boxes, beautifully carved and inlaid were "useful as well as ornamental". Recollections of "sudden pains and sickness at stomach at night."

At a five days' hall at Squire Lee's, the ladies were dressed gay and splendid. When dancing their quilled petticoats never wrinkled and the brocade skirt trailed behind them. The Golden Age married her girls often younger than 15 years. The clever little mistresses often flirted with a 60 years' old squire. Brilliant jewels dangled in her ears, hair powdered white as snow.

The latest importation of stays are produced upwards so high we can scarce have any view at all of the ladies' snowy bosoms.

March 15, 1781 Cornwallis invaded Virginia. He occupied Yorktown. Later in the year General Washington besieged Yorktown and compelled Lord Cornwallis to surrender his army of about 8,000 men. Twenty-eight British generals had stepped forth from the lines and surrendered as many colors to the ragged continental.

Agatha Mary Washington figures. After an absence of nearly seven years, the great commander was coming home attended by a brilliant retinue of French and American officers. Old Frederickburg threw its hat in the air and declared Frederickburg beauties should tread a measure with those gay foreigners.

On with the dance let joy be unconfined. The town was crowded with French and American officers, and gentlemen from all parts of the country. The mother of Washington was especially invited to the splendid ball.

The gallant Frenchmen so much admired the American minuet, and they admitted that a Parisian education could not improve it. Other dances are recorded, "one," wrote General Green, "was given at my quarters March, 1779 (the dark hour). His excellency and Mrs. Green danced upwards of three hours without sitting down."

Some rather commonplace lines come to my mind—typical of the woman after the Revolution—then a parody, the twentieth century woman: However, laugh and the world laughs with you.

She wishes she had dozen pairs of hands, this very minute. That she might put all things to rights.

For the very mischief was in it. A big washing to be done. Dinner to get for six or more. And baby as cross as he can live. He's always so on Monday.

The cream is getting sour. The bread must be worked for baking. Which way shall I be turning. Oh Dear! The baby's waking. John wants his buttons on— "Hush! Hush! Dear little Freddie. Till I can run and get some wood To hurry up the kettle. If Pa comes home and finds the things in such a potter, He'll just begin to tell me all about his tidy mother: Her dinner always ready. "But didn't you say you wouldn't accept the best man that walked the earth?" asked the girl in the new fall hat. "Yes," replied her chum, blushing deeply. "And yet you have accepted Percy Gilder." "Well, he doesn't have to walk the earth. He owns an automobile."—Chicago News.

Home endorsement, the public expression of Paducah people should be evidence beyond dispute for every Paducah reader. Surely the experience of friends and neighbors, cheerfully given by them, will carry more weight than the utterances of strangers residing in far-away places. Read the following:

Warren, 408 1/2 Broadway, Paducah, says: "Every painter is more or less troubled with his kidneys on account of the nature of his work. We all know what causes it, but how to remove it is a mystery. SCORNED BY WIFE; KILLS SELF.

Estabishment From Spouse Causes A Leftkovich to Commit Suicide.

Oakland, Cal.—Despondent because of his inability to effect a reconciliation with his wife, from whom he had separated last November, Arthur Leftkovich, a retired mining man, 57 years of age, committed suicide by shooting himself in the head in his room at 129 San Pablo avenue. The shot was heard by the landlord of the house, who found the body of Leftkovich seated in a chair.

Leftkovich left a note addressed to the coroner, declaring that he had killed himself, and asking that no inquest be held. He also left a note, written in German, addressed to his brother, announcing that he had taken his life because of domestic trouble. Mrs. Leftkovich separated from her husband in November of last year, the couple having come from San Francisco after the fire, and has since lived at the Crelling hotel, where she now resides. He also leaves a daughter, Miss Carrie Leftkovich, and two sons, Harry and Louis Leftkovich. Both of the sons live in Los Angeles, where they are interested in mining enterprises.

CHARGES GOV. WITH FRAUD

New Mexico's Executive Accused of Unlawfully Acquiring Lands.

Santa Fe, N. M., March 6.—The house today passed a resolution to investigate the conduct of Governor Herbert J. Hagerman in regard to the alleged fraudulent acquisition of 7,000 acres of timber lands in the Manzano Mountains by the Pennsylvania Development company, said to have been connected with the Enterprise bank failure at Pittsburgh, Pa. The charge is that the governor, without the knowledge and consent of the commissioner of public lands, delivered to the general manager of the Pennsylvania company the deed for the land; that he took the seal of the commissioner and unlawfully affixed it to the deed; that the land, worth from $25 to $100 an acre, was sold at only $3 an acre; that the federal law at the time forbade the selling of more than 160 acres to any one purchaser, and that, therefore, the territorial institutions were defrauded to that extent.

ANTI-PASS BILL IS BLOCKED.

Kansas House Balks at Substitute Measure Offered by Senate.

Topeka, Kan., March 6.—What may be a death blow to anti-pass legislation at the present session of the legislature was dealt in the house this afternoon when that body refused to advance the senate anti-pass bill from the bottom of the calendar, where it is now situated. The house passed the Stone bill, a stringent measure, three weeks ago, but the senate sent back the Getty bill as a substitute. The house has balked at the substitution and the Getty measure is now buried by scores of other bills. Unless it is advanced there is absolutely no chance for the house reaching it before adjournment.

First Blood for Liquor Men.

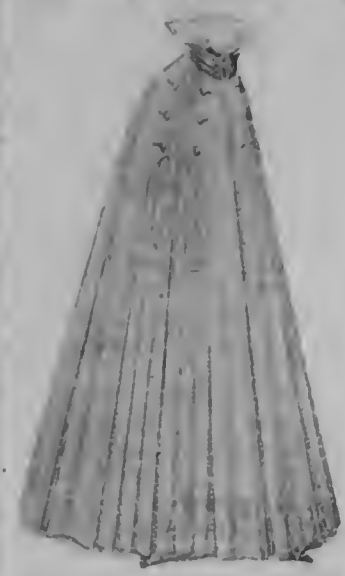

Mayfield, Ky., March 6.—The liquor men won first blood here today in the local option fight. County Judge C. D. Newell, after going over the lists of names filed by the temperance people, petitioning for a special election May 7, marked off several who were not entitled to a vote. He then ruled that he would not pass on the petitions until next Monday, in order to give the liquor dealers a chance to look over the names.

This is considered a victory for the "wets," as they will try to induce enough people to withdraw their names by that time, so that the judge cannot call the election. The county judge appointed Squire Fred Dresch as coroner, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of George W. Orr.

Whisky Election in Paris.

Paris, Ky., March 6.—The local option question was brought to an acute phase here today, when the "wets" withdrew their petition for an election throughout the county as a unit. When the case was called Judge Dunden was confronted with four petitions, two filed by the temperance people, calling for an election in the city of Paris, as a unit, on April 11; the other asking for an election

Starts Saloon Fight.

Louisville, March 6.—After working quietly for some months gathering evidence of alleged violations of the Sunday closing laws and just when the saloonkeepers began to think the 1 o'clock opening would suffice, County Attorney Bingham yesterday dropped a bomb by filing twenty-two penal actions against Louisville saloonkeepers.

Avoids Hated Town 10 Years.

Lexington, Ky., March 6.—Mrs. Frances Penn Pater, aged 91, who died at her home in this county today, lived seven miles from town, and had not been here in more than forty years. She became angry at some of the people in the city before the war and vowed that she would never visit the place again. She was very wealthy and was a relative of Henry Clay.

Mayfield, Ky., March 6.—The liquor men won first blood here today in the local option fight. County Judge C. D. Newell, after going over the lists of names filed by the temperance people, petitioning for a special election May 7, marked off several who were not entitled to a vote. He then ruled that he would not pass on the petitions until next Monday, in order to give the liquor dealers a chance to look over the names.

The "wets" filed petitions asking for an election in the city as a unit on April 11 and 18. The attorneys disagreed as to dates, and Judge Dunden ordered an election held in the city of Paris as a unit, April 11, designating April 2 as special registration day.

office of city assessor, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

For City Treasurer.

The Sun is authorized to announce J. W. McKnight as a candidate for the office of City Treasurer subject to the action of the Democratic party.

Daily Thought.

Absence of occupation is not rest;
a mind quite vacant is a mind distressed.—Cowper.

GIVE HIM A CHANCE.

Indications point to the fact that when the new superintendent of city schools assumes his office next fall he will find nothing but executive duties of routine nature to perform. Without considering his wishes or waiting for him to study local conditions and devise such a system to suit the needs of the city, as his 20 years' experience in the work should enable him, the school board is considering a scheme to lessen the hours of work, a change in the high school principals and the distribution of grades, while they are giving heed to popular clamor on the subject.
One of the faults of this school board has been a too attentive ear to sounds political. Warning of its character was given, when the candidates announced themselves as running on a platform pledging them to give jobs to Paducah people.

We know nothing of the capabilities of Professor Carnegie, but we protest, he is entitled to absolute freedom in the conduct of the schools, so far as lies in the province of a superintendent. We do not set ourselves up as competent to judge, better than a superintendent of 20 years' experience, whether longer or shorter hours are needed; neither do we think that popular clamor will suffice in the matter. All questions of administration and discipline should be left to the superintendent, who necessarily would have to confide in the school board to secure its sanction.

Mapping out a school system does not fall within the expert knowledge of men, who run saloons, groceries, drug stores, newspapers or steamboats, or who work on houses, in factories or in the streets. That expert knowledge belongs to school men, and dictating the policy of a new superintendent and dealing with teachers and principals over his head will mark his administration less a success than conditions warrant from the start. Give the new superintendent a fair chance to make good.

Recent murder trials involving some hundreds of thousands of dollars as well as human lives, have developed some forms of insanity new to most of us. We have besides the "exaggerated ego," brain storms, explosive insanity, neurotic cyclones and adolescent vagaries, all of which are peculiarly applicable to murder cases, in that the first manifestation of the disease is coincident with the crime, and the death of the victim removes the cause of the insanity and the patient is well again, thus saving him from the mad house as well as the electric chair. Modern science has developed some wonderful refinements of the mental diseases, which we have been wont to speak of as just "nutty." We watch with interest the scientific differentiations of the various forms of kleptomania.

Since Mr. Harriman concedes that President Roosevelt means all right;
the rest of us can assure him that the president is proceeding in the right manner. Perhaps, as Mr. Harriman suggests, the president is lacking in business experience, but he seems to be in no wise lacking in moral perception. There is only one way to eradicate evil, and that is to cut it out root and branch. The legitimate railroad business will not be injured by the process. It is unfortunate for the heads of some great industrial organizations to consider themselves immune from the civil and moral law. Long public and official acquiescence in their practices, while they have been growing and growing, have instilled this belief in successive generations of capitalists of industry.
Unfortunately, too, practical men have been succeeded by speculators who instead of intensely developing their legitimate properties, have been exploiting the stocks for their own enrichment, deferring, withholding and grating dividends at their pleasure, watering stock and issuing bonds when it served their purposes; selling the stock at a premium, and then depreciating it and buying it back. All this has tended to put investment in some industrial stocks on a level with a crap game with loaded dice. Those are big concerns, but they are not as big as the United States of America and it is no wise increases our sympathy for the man on the grill to hear him patronizing our president.

It was quite characteristic of the Democratic organ, after publishing without comment about a column and a half of matter credited to the Chicago Tribune, and eulogizing the record of the Fifty-ninth congress, to produce an editorial the next day, denouncing the congress as extravagant and reckless. We wondered when we read that extract from the Chicago Tribune, whether the organ and Jo Blackburn had amended their opinions at the same time.

It would have been all off with the other applicants for the position of school superintendent, had a man seven feet tall asked for the job.

That juror, who resembles John D.
Rockefeller, is in luck. If it is a touching resemblance.

Stoner Ferguson, slayer of Gus Morris, seems to have conducted quite a masterly retreat.

ROOSEVELT'S SUCCESSOR.

Straw votes recently taken among the Republican members of the legislatures of Nebraska and South Dakota, to test their preference for the next presidential nomination of their party, show an almost unanimous sentiment for Roosevelt. If he will accept. From Kansas and other states it is reported that a delegation in favor of Roosevelt will be sent to the convention, whether he likes it or not and there is talk to the same effect in other western states.

If, however, Mr. Roosevelt will not accept another nomination—and he has lot it be known with complete positiveness that he thinks the best service he can render the country for the four years following March 4, 1909, is not to be president—toward whom of the other Republican leaders is sentiment tending? To test this question additional straw votes, excluding Roosevelt, were taken in both the Nebraska and the South Dakota legislatures. The result showed that Taft had as much support as all the others combined.
In Nebraska Taft had 38 votes, His nearest competitors were Root, Beyeridge and Fairbanks in that order, with 8 7 and 6 votes respectively.
Cannon, La Follette, Cummins, Dol-liver and Hughes had together 12 votes. In South Dakota Taft had 46 votes, with La Follette 17, Hughes 10, and Root, Shaw, Fairbanks, Dol-liver and Moody together 24. For both legislatures the total was Taft, 84; all others 84.

These votes are among the indications that the progressive element of the party, with Roosevelt out of the running, is centering on Taft as the best exponent of his policies and the most capable man for the chief magistracy. It is equally certain that the strength of the conservative and reactionary elements in the Republican parties is centering on Fairbanks.
Between Fairbanks and Taft the next national convention will very probably make its choice.—Chicago Record-Herald.

SAYS ADAMS IS PAWN
IN INDUSTRIAL FIGHT.

Wallace, Idaho, March 6.—"Steve Adams is only a pawn in the great game that is being played. The prosecutors in this case do not believe Adams is guilty. They never did believe it."

So declared Attorney E. F. Rieh-ardson today in his plea to the jury to acquit Adams of the charge of killing Fred Tyler. He based his plea on the theory that the state is making use of Adams only for the purpose of convicting others—that his trial is but a minor issue in the great fight between the Mine Owners' association and the Western Federation of Miners.

A feature of Judge Richardson's address this morning was his severe denunciation of detectives in general and McPartland in particular.

"The detective agency that employs McPartland," he declared, "is not an organization that is known to the law. It is private interest working for private ends, or perhaps obeying the behest of some one holding private position, who employs it."

Theater Unprotected.

Danville, Ill., March 6.—When the trial of Will J. Davis, former manager of the Ironsides theater, charged with manslaughter, in connection with the death of almost 600 persons when fire destroyed the theater, December 30, 1903, was resumed today. Attorney Buckingham made the opening statement and said the building lacked many pieces of apparatus, which should have been there to provide for the safety of those who entered.

OFFICIALS HELD
AS RESPONSIBLECoroner's Jury Returns Surprising Verdict

Chamney Depew and New York Central Magnates Liable to Criminal Prosecution.

RAILROAD CIRCLES STIRRED UP.

New York, March 6.—The coroner's jury which has been investigating the wreck of February 16 in the Bronx on which 28 persons met death, today returned a verdict finding "that the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad company did not take all the necessary precautions to guard its passengers at this point and consequently were culpably negligent, and that the responsibility for the existing conditions seems to be divided between the construction and operating departments."

When Coroner Schwannecke received the verdict he turned to the jury and asked: Can you gentlemen find any individual responsible?"

"There is our verdict," answered the foreman.

"Then" answered the coroner, "I will hold the entire board of directors of the New York Central and also the president and will parole them until tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock when I shall accept bail."

This verdict was rendered after over two weeks' investigation by the coroner and a jury during which many witnesses have been called.

When the coroner had announced his decision to hold the directors and the president of the road, attorneys for the Central objected vigorously without avail. Coroner Schwannecke declined to say what charge he would lodge against the officials held by him, saying this would be made known tomorrow.

Assistant District Attorney Smith

ed that now he could present the case to the grand jury.

FIRST WELLESLEY CHIEF DEAD

Miss Ada L. Howard, Noted Educator, Succumbs to Pneumonia.

Wellesley, Mass., March 6.—The death from pneumonia of Miss Ada L. Howard, first president of Wellesley College, at Brooklyn, N. Y., last night, was announced here today.
Miss Howard was born in 1829. She was for several years a teacher at Mount Holyoke College and at the Western College, Oxford, Ohio; was at one time principal of the woman's department of Knox College, Galesburg, Ill., and later conducted a private school at Bridgeton, N. J., from which she was called to preside over Wellesley College, becoming the first woman president of a college. Miss Howard held the position of president until her health failed in 1881.

COURT-MARTIAL DOORS CLOSED

Fourteen Discharged Soldiers Subpoenaed in Penrose Case.

San Antonio, Tex., March 6.—Today's session in the Penrose court-martial case was held behind closed doors. Major Blockson was on the witness stand all morning.

Fourteen of the discharged soldiers of the Twenty-fifth Infantry, who have testified before the senate committee in Washington, have been subpoenaed to testify before the court-martial.
The government, it is understood, has refused to advance transportation for the discharged soldiers, but it has been arranged that after actually covering the mileage they will be reimbursed.

Street Cars Collide.

Louisville, March 6.—Shelby

STATE RIGHTS.

President Roosevelt covered a wide range in his talk to the Harvard students. He began with athletics, which he holds in high esteem, and ended with state rights, of which he has not an exalted opinion. His criticism of them, or of the use to which they are occasionally put, may add to the irritation of those nervous persons who think they see symptoms of a deliberate movement in the direction of a centralized government and the abasement of the states.

There is more or less truth in the president's statement that the men who say that the general movement cannot, without a violation of state rights, carry out the "proper and adequate supervision" of corporations.
Mr. Roosevelt thinks is needed are unwilling that corporations should be supervised properly by any agency.
He about hits the mark also when he says these men are powerless to outline any plan of constructive statesmanship which shall give relief. Unquestionably it is often the case that the beneficiary of corporate abuses or his hired advocate can find no other argument against national action to end the abuses than that it would be unconstitutional because an infringement on the reserved rights of the states.

Nevertheless, the states have rights which the national government is obliged to respect. The president admits they have rights and says "they should be preserved when they mean the people's rights, but not when they mean the people's wrongs—not when they stand for wrong or oppression of any kind or for national weakness or impotence at home or abroad." This is a statement of the case which will appeal strongly to many, but it is to the constitution that one must turn finally to ascertain what the national government and the state governments can or cannot do. If the interpreter of that instrument, the supreme court, shall say that some abuse, tolerated by a state, is outside the jurisdiction of the national government it must submit.

The licensing by the national government of state corporations manufacturing articles that enter into interstate commerce has been proposed.
The object would be to secure the "proper and adequate control" of the corporations. There are those who oppose the measure as unconstitutional.
Some of its opponents may not believe what the says, but others do.
Endless argument will not settle the controversy. Assertions that the states lack the power or the inclination to attend to the matter properly will not settle it. The only way to settle such a question would be to enact a law and see what the supreme court thought of it from the purely constitutional point of view.

The men who say there is an effort to strip the states of their rights need not be alarmed. They will have the aid of the supreme court in defending such efforts if they shall be made. In the past, when the federal government has attempted to exert a power that the court did not believe it had, it has staid the hand of the government, no matter how excellent the motives by which it was actuated.—Chicago Tribune.

RUEF IS FUGITIVE.

Frisco Boss Forfeits His Bond of

San Francisco, Cal., March 6.—
Abe Ruef is a fugitive from justice.
His bail of $50,000 was declared forfeited when he failed to appear in Judge Dunn's court today, and a bench warrant was issued for his arrest. Last night a report was received that Ruef is in Los Angeles.
The wily boss has succeeded in puzzling the prosecution as to the exact purpose of his latest move. It is thought, however, that he has resorted to this expedient to throw his case into the federal courts.

BUSY 'ROUND CITY HALL.

Merry War Between Harrison and Reed Factions.

While G. R. Davis is quietly working among his friends, and Col. J. E.
Potter, is sounding the loud timbre, the merriest war among Democratic city factions in years is being waged between the forces of City Attorney Tom Harrison and Col. Charles Reed.
Harrison, it is claimed, is making his fight, with the removal of Chief of Police Collins, as his main issue, while the administration quite naturally is making a campaign to head off Mr. Harrison. The claim is made at the city hall that the present board of police and fire commissioners will hold for three years in spite of everything Mayor Tom can do.
However, he seems to have considered this suggestion himself, and smiles knowingly, as if something up his sleeve tickles him when the idea is mentioned. Mayor Yeiser's office has taken on its pre-election air of mystery and activity, and the busy sign is hanging on the knob quite frequently. Mayor Yeiser always takes the interest in citizen should in municipal elections.

WOULD STOP DOUBLE SALARIES.

Wisconsin Finds Many University Heads Drawing Two Pays.

Madison, Wis., March 6.—In accordance with a joint resolution adopted last week, Secretary of State Frear last night sent a communication to the legislature giving the names and salaries of state employes on two pay rolls. The list contains the names of a score of professors and other persons drawing pay for work in the state university and in different departments in the state capitol. The revelations in most instances created considerable surprise, and the legislature will doubtless enact a law prohibiting state employes from being on two pay rolls.

BOARD CONSIDERING
POSTPONING ELECTION

Explaining the reason for taking a recess in the school board meeting last night, Trustee Kelly said this morning that it was for the purpose of considering the urgent appeals made to them to defer the election of superintendent. All day yesterday the trustees individually were requested to postpone the election and in the recess last night it was decided that no sufficient reason for delaying election had been brought forward.

Loses Her Slipper and Big Policeman Finds It.

If the fair owner of a French heeled slipper will call at police headquarters, she can secure it by producing the mate and trying it on in the presence of a committee.

"O, if that slipper could only talk, what a story it could tell!" ruminated Chief Collins this morning.

It's a patent leather affair, with a wide bow and a heel four inches high.
"Naughty, naughty," continued the chief, reflectively, as he turned it around and around. "I wonder if the man's hat flew out in the street with you; or—your poor dainty thing —did the laughing water make your mistress unsteady, so you missed the hat?"

"No. Nobody could wear roller skates with a shoe like that."
"Um—yes—skates all right. And maybe the rollers later."

Anyway, there it is, but Chief Collins will go broke the owner will never call.

What Osteopathy Will Do.
There are but few people who have not heard of Osteopathy, also of some of its achievements. But there are far too many who have accredited it with being good for only those conditions from which they have been cured, or which have come under their observation. Not infrequently there is mutual surprise when one who was cured of rheumatism meets another who has been cured of asthma or constipation. This is a homely, but very true illustration.

Personally, I have cured chronic cases of constipation, rheumatism, asthma, nervousness, neuralgia and headaches for people whom you know well, and the value of the Osteopathic treatment is but coming generally known in Paducah, as it the treatment has done for them in similar diseases. Come to my office,

PEOPLE AND SOCIAL EVENTS

U. D. C. Chapter.
The Paducah chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy held the meeting for March with Miss Adine Morton, at 612 Broadway yesterday afternoon. The meeting was presided over by the first vice president, Mrs. John L. Webb, in the absence of the president, Mrs. James Koger, on account of illness. Routine business was transacted. A very delightful musical and literary program followed the business session. Mrs. Luko Russell told most interestingly of "The Confederate Navy." Mrs. Lola Wade Lewis gave a fine sketch of Admiral Raphael Semmes, of the Confederacy. Miss Julia Scott sang very charmingly "At Parting," by Rogers, and "I Long for You," by Hawley. Miss Mary Scott played Liebling's "Serenade" with delightful finish and touch. Mr. Emmett Bagby sang very impressively, giving "In Ole Virginia" for an encore.

Woman's Club.

The Woman's club will meet in regular session tomorrow afternoon at the parish house of Grace Episcopal church. The business meeting will begin promptly at 2 o'clock and it is especially important as there will be an election of officers, which the constitution and by-laws of the federated clubs calls for at this time.

An open meeting will be held at 3 o'clock under the auspices of the Art department of the club. A most attractive program will be presented with stereoscopic pictures. These pictures are especially beautiful and will be used in connection with the talks made, they are 42 in number and have just been received from Chicago. The program is:

1. Vocal solo—Angels Sweetly Sing—Händel—Miss Julia Scott.
2. The Angel and Saint in Art—Miss Alice Compton.
3. "Ave Maria" from Cavalleria Rusticana—Mrs. David Flournoy.
4. The Madonna in Art—Miss Anna Webb.

The members of the club are requested to bring their membership tickets with them and present at the door for admission.

Miss Jeanne Wallace, of Sturgis, Ky., is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. P. E. Alloway, 2322 West Broadway, en route from Campbell, Mo., to her home.

Matinee Musical Club.

The Matinee Musical club is meeting this afternoon at the parish house of Grace Episcopal church. It is a Saint-Saens and Berlioz afternoon and the program is a very attractive one. The room has been prettily decorated with flowers and especially arranged for the occasion by the leaders, Mrs. David G. Murrell and Miss Virginia Newell. The program to be presented is:

Current Events.
Saint-Saens "Minueto," four hands
—Misses Corliss and Lethia Puryear.

Tribute to the Rev. David C. Wright.
Today's Memphis Commercial-appeal says:

"Rev. D. C. Wright, of Grace church, Paducah, Ky., addressed the gathering at the Merchants' Exchange yesterday upon the actuality of intercourse between God and man and upon the equality of Christianity and the exact sciences as to their authenticity. Dr. Wright has a most emphatic and convincing way of expressing his beliefs, and exhibits an earnest and determined desire to place the Christianity of which he is so able an exponent beyond the need of an apology. His familiarity with the great moral and religious difficulty of the day, namely, the demand for a proof of the divine, is obvious, and he attacks the problem with the courage of a man settled in his convictions."

Steer Is Mired.

While a drove of cattle were being driven to the stockyards one of them got away near Smith & Scott's tobacco warehouse, Eighth and Burnett streets, and plunging into a swamp behind the warehouse, got mired until only its nose was sticking out. All efforts proved futile to rescue the animal until late this afternoon.

Much Cotton Destroyed.

IN THE COURTS

In Police Court.

Most of the long session of police court this morning was taken up in hearing the warrants against Waggoner for violating the Sunday closing law and Charley Slaughter for operating a gaming house. In the other cases several large fines were assessed.

No evidence was adduced to show that Charley Slaughter operated a gaming house and the warrant on that count was dismissed. On count of gaming himself he pleaded guilty and was fined $30 and costs.

Mack McKinney, colored, for using obscene language and being drunk and disorderly, was fined $20 and costs.

Edwin Peak flourished a pistol at Rexie Rasper and threatened to end her existence therewith. For this ungovernable behavior and for carrying concealed a deadly weapon, he was fined $50 and full costs.

John Montjoy charged with malicious cutting will be given a hearing Saturday morning, being postponed from absence of witnesses. Will Fan, alias Will Fox, arrested yesterday for breaking into the house of Frank Wilcox in the county, by Deputy Clark Portson, will be tried Saturday also, all his witnesses not being present.

In Bankruptcy.

E. Rehkopf filed an amended schedule with Judge Bagby in the bankruptcy court, listing his household effects at $2,200. Now his wife, and daughter, Mrs. Earl Walters, claim the household effects as their property. Trustee A. E. Boyd will not surrender the property until the ownership is proved.

Judge Bagby will go to Smithland tomorrow to try the cases of J. H. Nelson, of Hampton, Ky., and Dr. J. D. Foley, of Lora, Ky. On March 12, Judge Bagby will go to La Center to try the case of W. D. Melton.

CHICAGO ROADS
GIVE INCREASE

Forty-two Lines and Fifty-five Thousand Men Affected

Employees May Accept or Reject Offer Made By System of Great West.

OVERTIME TO BE CONSIDERED

St. Paul, March 6.—The manager's committee, representing 42 railroads west of Chicago, has announced an important schedule of advance in pay which has been tendered freight and passenger conductors and trainmen. In case this schedule does not prove acceptable to the employees the roads will use their influence to throw the entire matter open to arbitration and prevent a strike if possible.

The method of arbitration, should such action prove necessary, is to be determined upon later. The offer affects 55,000 men.

The tender of the managers of heavy increases of pay is the result of conferences lasting more than a month, participated in by the general managers representing various lines, and general chairmen from each system, representing the employees involved.

Matter Up to the Men.

These conferences have just closed and the general chairmen are now returning to their various lines, to submit the schedule of increases to the men for a decision.

Whether the employees will accept the tender or not will not be known until the results of the work of the general chairmen are reported. The offer of the managers is as follows:

Conductors in passenger service are to be granted an increase of pay of $10 per month.

Passenger baggagemen are to be granted an increase of $6 per month. Passenger brakemen and flagmen are to be granted an increase of $5 per month.

Freight conductors and brakemen are to be granted an increase of 10 per cent in pay on the basis of the schedule prevailing on Nov. 1, 1906.

Pay for Overtime.

Proportionate and equitable offers of increases in overtime pay are made part of the tender. The trainmen have insisted upon an increase of 12 per cent, in both the passenger and freight service.

The offer of the managers is considered liberal and will, if accepted, raise the pay of employees on every line in the Southwest, Northwest and West.

F. W. Gilbert, representing the Great Northern, Northern Pacific and Soo roads, left this evening for Chicago to attend the meeting of the managers' committee.

Health in the Canal Zone.

Weak Women

NEEL VINOL
its cod liver tonic elements create vitality and strength

There are hundreds of women in Paducah weak, thin, run-down, tired out and nervous, just in a condition to fall a prey to any disease.

Our local druggist, W. B. McPherson, says such women need Vinol, our vitality making and strength creating tonic.

Vinol is not a patent medicine, but the medicinal elements of good old-fashioned cod liver oil in a highly concentrated form—taken from fresh cods' livers—the useless oil eliminated and tonic iron added.

This is why it creates an appetite, tones up the digestive organs, makes rich red blood and replaces weakness with strength.

We ask every weak, thin, run-down nervous and aged person in Paducah to try Vinol on our guarantee to return money if it does not benefit them. W. B. McPherson, Druggist. NOTE—While we are sole agents for Vinol in Paducah, it is now for sale at the leading drug store in nearly every town and city in the country. Look for the Vinol agency in your town.

STRIKING COLORS.

Ties, waistcoats and socks of striking colors for evening dress form an innovation that a coterie of young society men is attempting to introduce in St. Louis. Wearing these novelties they may be seen here and there at the large theaters on "society nights" and are attracting no end of attention and comment, says the Post-Dispatch.

That the conventional evening dress of black and white is too somber and that, since it is also a mark of the waiter and undertaker, it does not sufficiently distinguish the social status of its wearers, are the pleas in abatement entered by those seeking to introduce the new garb. Thus far only a dozen, of young St. Louis men have begun at this matter, but they are banded together by a firm belief in the right and destiny of their purpose.

Nor have they stopped at halfway measures. Ties of bright blue or yellow, often with a polka-dot design, and with odd-patterned waistcoats and queer-colored socks are favored. Further, the devotees of the would-be revolution often wear a boutonniere to match.

The new social crusaders point out to those whom they would convince that the evening dress of their sex has long been a bone of contention among those who have set the social pace of the world. New York and London, they remind their friends, have at various times attempted just what these seek to accomplish here. Only, they gravely point out, New York and London have gone about it in the wrong way. Those centers have attempted to reform the coat or the trousers, while it is only the accessories that are at fault.

Young women for whom they have provided themselves as escorts have looked askance at the new order of things as making them conspicuous by association. And men old in the world and ways of fashion have spoken sarcastically and with looks of skepticism have held up the history of the past.

"But no one ever tried to wear polka-dot ties, sky-blue waistcoats and yellow and red socks before," insist the St. Louis young men. "This is the proper point of attack. We have begun; we shall persist; we will be victorious."

A Humane Appeal.

A humane citizen of Richmond, Ind., Mr. U. D. Williams, 107 West Main St., says: "I appeal to all persons with weak lungs to take Dr. King's New Discovery, the only remedy that has helped me and fully comes up to the proprietor's recommendation." It saves more lives than all other throat and lung remedies put together. Used as cough and cold cure the world over. Cures asthma, bronchitis, croup, whooping cough, quinsy, hoarseness, and phthisis, stops hemorrhages of the lungs and builds them up. Guaranteed at all druggists, 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Knowledge would be more general if men could only be convinced that they do not know as much as they think they do.

STATE RATE BILL
IS LEGAL PUZZLE

Question of Constitutionality is Mooted

Attorney General Insists That It Is and Others Say It Is Not and They Argue.

THE FILE OF TWO CENT FARE

Springfield, Ill., March 6.—When the Republican steering committee met today prior to the regular session of the house Judge Lindly, chairman of the committee, laid before it the opinion of Attorney General Stead as to the constitutionality of the 2-cent maximum passenger rate bill of the commonwealth on railroads.

Upon that opinion will depend greatly not only the time for house action on the bill but also the form in which the bill will be advanced to third reading and passed.

Attorney General Stead's opinion was to the effect that the bill as drawn is constitutional; that there is no question of the right of a legislative body to enact laws fixing a maximum rate for passenger traffic on the roads in the state. The opinion will also, it is asserted, hold that the question of what constitutes a reasonable rate is a matter for the courts to decide—in other words, that such legislation is subject to court review.

Opponents of the bill in its present form, which provides for a flat 2-cent rate on all railroads within the state, contend that an adverse decision in any particular case would invalidate the bill. This opinion is directly opposed to that of Mr. Chipfield, of the steering committee, who has been looking up decisions in similar cases and who will present his views at tomorrow's meeting of the Republican steering committee.

Decisions of the Illinois supreme court and the supreme court of the United States apparently are flatly at variance on the whole question.

Preliminary to the regular monthly meeting members of the railroad and warehouse commission came to Springfield yesterday and were in conference with Governor Deneen. The prospective reduction in passenger fares by the Illinois railroads was under discussion.

The position assumed by the board is that since the legislature and the commission have concurred jurisdiction in the matter of rate reductions, the situation assumes a phase similar to a case in court. Since the assembly has taken steps toward reducing passenger rates in the state the railroad and warehouse commission will take no action on this subject so long as the legislature is in session.

Battler Shares Office.

Atlantic City—A five-foot rattlesnake has become the special pet of Mayor Stoy and occupies luxurious quarters in the private office of the Mayor. The snake has five rattles on the end of its tail, which it rattles joyously at the approach of Mr. Stoy. Since his arrival here, several days ago, his snakeship has had the run of the Mayor's private room, with the result that every one except the Mayor has given the place a wide berth. The janitor has refused to clean the room, and the typewriters have been thrown into a state bordering on hysteria, all owing to the freedom with which the snake is allowed to creep about the room.

Mayor Stoy secured his odd pet while on a hunting trip in the South recently. The snake seems to be remarkably intelligent, and has learned to come to Mr. Stoy at his call. A favorite haunt for the snake is at the top of the Mayor's desk, where it will remain for hours at a time wrapped in a neat coil while his honor attends to his official business. Mr. Stoy says the snake has come to stay.

The Judge's Demand.

Justice Harlan, of the United States supreme court, recently celebrated the golden anniversary of his wedding, and the event brought to light some stories of the stalwart jurist. One related shows the justice was riding toward Washington on a sleeping car from Louisville. Before retiring he went into the smoking compartment to get a drink of water. There were half a dozen men in the place, and a flask had been passed around and the glass used for the liquor. Justice Harlan took up the glass, smelled it and turned to the smokers:

"Who," he roared, in his deep bass voice, "has had the temerity to drink whisky out of this glass?"

"I did," piped up the owner of the flask, somewhat awed by the great bulk of the justice.

"Then, sir," said the justice sternly, "where are you hiding the bottle?"—Harper's Weekly.

"Jack," she said caressingly, "it isn't to tell you this stupid old story that I've brought you here. It's really to tell you a sort of sequel." She stroked his hand gently once or twice. "As I say, I met this man and we—we became very fond of each other. You understand? Then we quarreled—quarreled quite badly—and I came away. I've remembered him rather longer than I remember most people—he was one of those dogged individuals who stick in one's mind. But he has stayed in mine for another reason." Again she looked up. "He has stayed because you helped to keep him there. You know how I have sometimes put my hands over your mouth and told you that your eyes reminded me of some one else? Well, that some one else was my Englishman. But you mustn't be jealous. He was a horrid, obstinate person, and you—well, you know what I think of you." She pressed his hand. "But to come to the end of the story. I never saw this man since that long ago time until—the night of Blancher's party?" She spoke slowly, to give full effect to her words. Then she waited for his surprise.

But the result was not what she expected. He said nothing, and with an abrupt movement, he drew his hand from between hers.

"Aren't you surprised?" she asked at last, with a delicate note of reproach.

He started slightly, as if recalled to the necessity of the moment. "Surprised?" he said. "Why should I be surprised? One person more or less at a big party isn't astonishing. Besides, you expect a man to turn up sooner or later in his own country. Why should I be surprised?"

She lay back luxuriously. "Because, my dear boy," she said softly, "it is a mystery! It's one of those fascinating mysteries that come once in a lifetime."

Loder made no movement. "You must explain," he said very quietly.

Lillian smiled. "That's just what I want to do. When I was in my tent on the night of Blancher's party, a man came to be gazed for. He came just like nobody else and laid his hands upon the table. He had strong, thin hands like—well, rather like yours. But he wore two rings on the third finger of his left hand—a heavy signet ring and a plain gold one."

Loder moved his hand imperceptibly till the cushion covered it. Lillian's words caused him no surprise, scarcely even any trepidation. He felt now that he had expected them, even waited for them, all along.

"I asked him to take off his rings," she went on, "and just for a second he hesitated—I could feel him hesitate. Then he seemed to have made up his mind, for he drew them off. He drew them off, Jack, and guess what I saw! Do you guess?"

For the first time Loder momentarily drew back into his corner of the couch. "I never guess," he said brusquely.

"Then I'll tell you. His hands were the hands of my Englishman! The rings covered the scar made by Ko Ko's teeth. I knew it instantly—the second my eyes rested on it. It was the same scar that I had bound up dozens of times, that I had been healed before I left Southampton."

"And you? What did you do?" Loder felt it somewhat difficult and unpleasant to speak.

"Ah, that's the point. That's where I was stupid and made my mistake. I should have spoken to him on the moment, but I didn't. You know how one sometimes hesitates. Afterward it was too late."

"But you saw him afterward—in the rooms?" Loder spoke unwillingly.

"No, I didn't—that's the other point. I didn't see him in the rooms, and I haven't seen him since. Directly he was gone I left the tent—I pretended to be hungry and bored—but, though I went through every room, he was nowhere to be found. Once—he hesitated and laughed again—once I thought I had found him, but it was only you—you, as you stood in that doorway with your mouth and chin hidden by Leonard Kalne's head. Wasn't it a queer mistake?"

There was an uncertain pause. Then Loder, feeling the need of speech, broke the silence suddenly. "Where do I come in?" he asked abruptly.

"What am I wanted for?"

"To help to throw light on the mystery! I've seen Blancher's list of people, and there wasn't a man I couldn't place—no outsider ever squeezes through Blancher's door. I have questioned Bobby Blessington, but he can't remember who came to the tent last night. And Bobby was supposed to have kept count!" She spoke in deep scorn, but almost immediately the scorn faded and she smiled again. "Now that I've explained, Jack," she added, "what do you suggest?"

Then for the first time Loder knew what his presence in the room really meant, and at best the knowledge was disconcerting. It is not every day that a man is called upon to unearth himself.

"Suggest?" he repeated blankly.

"Yes, I'd rather have your idea of the affair than anybody else's. You are so dear and so careful and keen that you can't help getting straight at the middle of a fact."

When Lillian wanted anything she could be very sweet. She suddenly dropped her half-petulant tone; she suddenly seemed to be a spoiled child.

With a perfectly graceful movement she drew quite close to Loder and said gently to her knees.

This is an attitude that few women can safely assume. It requires all the attributes of youth, suppleness and a certain buoyant ease. But Lillian never acted without justification and as she leaned toward Loder, her face lifted, her slight figure and pale hair shone, her slight figure and pale hair shone, her slight figure and pale hair shone.

But the person who should have appreciated it stared steadily beyond it to the fire. His mind was absorbed by one question—the question of how he might reasonably leave the house before discovery became assured.

Lillian, attentively watching him, saw the uneasy look, and her own face fell. But, as she looked, an inspiration came to her—a remembrance of many interviews with Chilcote smoothed and facilitated by the timely use of tobacco.

"Jack," she said softly, "before you say another word I insist on your lighting a cigarette." She leaned forward, resting against his knee.

At her words Loder's eyes left the fire. His attention was suddenly needed for a new and more imminent difficulty. "Thanks!" he said quickly. "I have no wish to smoke."

"It isn't a matter of what you wish, but of what I say," she smiled. She knew that Chilcote with a cigarette between his lips was infinitely more tractable than Chilcote sitting idle, and she had no intention of ignoring the knowledge.

But Loder caught at her words. "Before you ordered me to smoke," he said, "you told me to give you some advice. Your first command must have prior claim." He grasped unhesitatingly at the less risky theme.

She looked up at him. "You're not always clear when you smoke," he persisted caressingly. "Light a cigarette—and give me one."

There are times when a unilquid justice seems to affect certain people. The only answer Lillian made was to pass her hand over Loder's waistcoat and, feeling his cigarette case, to draw it from the pocket.

He affected not to see it. "Do you think he recognized you in that tent?" he insisted desperately.

She held out the case. "Here are your cigarettes. You know we're always more social when we smoke."

In the short interval while she looked up into his face several ideas passed through Loder's mind. He thought of standing up suddenly and so renouncing his advantage. He wondered quickly whether one hand could possibly suffice for the taking out and lighting of two cigarettes. Then all need for speculation was pushed suddenly aside.

Lillian, looking into his face, saw his fresh look of disturbance, and from long experience again changed her tactics. Laying the cigarette case on the couch, she put one hand on his shoulder, the other on his left arm. Hundreds of times this caressing touch had quieted Chilcote.

"Dear old boy!" she said soothingly, her hand moving slowly down his arm.

In a dash of understanding the consequences of this position came to him. Action was imperative, at whatever risk. With an abrupt gesture he rose.

The movement was awkward. He got to his feet precipitately. Lillian drew back, surprised and startled, catching involuntarily at his left hand to steady her position.

Board of Public Works Deny His Report to Council

Matter of Caring for Streets Involves Securing Some Further Information.

OBJECT TO THEIR TREATMENT

Sewer Inspector A. Buudesman has the same force and facilities he had prior to the controversy between the council and the board of public works over the election to that office, is the claim of the board. In his communication addressed to the council on Monday night he accuses the board of not supplying his demands and asks relief at the hands of the council. Mayor Yeiser passed the communication to the board of public works in the meeting yesterday afternoon, but no action was taken further than to assert that his communication was not in strict line with the facts. The board does not recognize Mr. Buudesman as sewer inspector.

Believing that the street department is not accomplishing as much work as possible, the board instructed Mr. Elliott, the street inspector, hereafter to employ none but young men in his department, and to secure at once, a young assistant. Several of the employees of the department now are too old in the opinion of the board and it is believed that young men can show better results at less cost to the department.

Mr. Elliott, the street inspector, said the work in his department has been so heavy that he has been doing Sunday work, and said that as several complaints about the condition of the streets reached him on Sunday he thought it advisable to keep the office open part of the day on Sunday. The board did not agree to the Sunday work and inquired why the police department never saw any dangerous places in the street. The board considers it part of the police duties to keep the streets open. Yet with 30 on the force, no effort to do so ever comes to the notice of the board, the street inspector having to attend to all such complaints. Information that J. M. Worten is moving houses in Worten's addition has reached the board and the street inspector was instructed to keep the streets open to traffic.

The board is indignant because the members think under the present attitude of the council, the board of public works is simply flunking of the council to carry out its orders. The ordinance that provides for the reconstruction of Broadway and Jefferson street from Ninth street to Eleventh street mentions the board of public works in but one insignificant part, where it saddles on that department the portmanteau duty of calling for bids for the work and then turning them over to the council with any suggestions it might make.

Little Street Work.

Residents in the new sewer district need little street repaving from the board of public works until after the sewer work is finished. To go ahead and repair had places now and have the streets torn up in a few weeks, is a prodigality the board shudders at, in view of the funds. On this point the board of public works had another sore toe, and the clerk was instructed to address a communication to the general council asking it to define the amount of the year's appropriation it may certainly expect to use in street repairs and cleaning. The board is alarmed lest street cleaning will have to be discontinued. Then, Mayor Yeiser has promised to have a personal encounter with the head of any department who causes a deficit this year.

Bids for supplying gravel to the board of public works were opened and three had been received. S. B. Gholson offered at an average price of 90 cents a yard. S. A. Fowler, representing Mrs. William Pryor, at an average of 92 1/2 cents; and Boswell & Yancey at 90 cents.

The board will have an adjourned meeting this afternoon to inspect the gravel when the bids will be refused on one accepted and the contract awarded. It is probable that the bids will be split in awarding the contract. Boswell & Yancey offer to supply gravel north of Kentucky avenue at 85 cents, and Gholson offered to supply it south of Kentucky avenue for 81 cents. By accepting each bid for the respective sides of the city, a saving of several cents a yard may be made.

Contractor Terrell was given until March 12 to repair the bad places in Third, Fourth and Fifth streets. The Paducah Traction company was ordered to finish cleaning the filler off the top of Broadway between Fourth and Fifth streets. The street inspector was instructed to enforce rigidly the regulation requiring red lights on obstructions left on sidewalks. Particular reference was had to the Belvedere hotel, which was the subject of a similar order at a previous meeting. The clerk will look up a contract made with S. A. Fowler last year.

President W. H. H. and Secretary Taylor were present.

Would you know a safe physic?

Most pills and laxatives are not. Something more than a purgative is necessary in a good physic. There are hundreds of preparations which will make the bowels act, but very few of them will do so without great damage to the digestive organs. Candied preparations, coated pills, certain salts, and other well known and widely used remedies force the bowels to action, but at a great cost of strength to the intestinal muscles. Such preparations act unnaturally. They weaken the entire system, and the patient is left in a worse condition than if nothing had been taken.

Startling Conditions Are Found Among Colored People of Paducah

"A careful study of the condition of the colored people in Paducah show that out of the 1,800 colored families there are 750 in which there are no children; 480 families own their own homes, and 144 families are in a destitute condition. About half of the destitute families live north of Trimble street; 62 of these families, representing 110 children, are improper, the children being illegitimate. Thirteen of these destitute families, representing 27 children are deserted by the fathers and husbands. Twenty-two families, representing 37 children, have been left in a destitute condition by the death of the fathers and husbands. Six families representing 13 children, have been deprived by death of both mothers and fathers, and the children have been left in the care of those that are not competent to raise them. The remaining 42 destitute families result from drunkenness, sickness, improvidence of fathers, improvidence, and a few cases from the death of the mothers and desertion by mothers.

The above distribution has reference only to cases where there are children under 14 years of age. There are many more families of this kind in all respects except that the children in the many families not included in the above figures are able now to help themselves a little in a material way, but there remains to them but little or no hope for intellectual and moral improvement. In these 141 families there are 311 children that will grow up in idleness, improvidence, ignorance and immorality.

About half of the colored children are enrolled in the public schools and about one-third have their names on the roll of the Sunday schools, but only about one-fifth actually attend the Sunday schools.

to do something else than sing and pray and preach and bury the dead. If there be anything in their Christianity, if they have the religion of the Lord Jesus Christ, if they have proper intelligence, if they have any courage—any manhood and womanhood among them, they would so organize and so labor together as to put a stop to the illegal practices that result in so much destitution among them. The law is in the favor of the good and it stands ready to assist them when they are prepared to bring forth satisfactory evidence. Praying and singing and preaching were never known to break up bawdy houses; it takes indictment and a faithful enforcement of the law.

The better class of colored people can never rear their families, nor can women retain their husbands as long as nearly every colored community is infested with immoral characters and immoral houses. Many a decent colored family is surrounded by dens of vice and they don't have the courage to defend themselves with the law which is ever ready to shield them. The better class of colored people should come together and organize to protect themselves against such characters. There are good white people that are willing to lend them every necessary moral assistance. The council should be petitioned to make it unlawful for a single woman to occupy a house except with a family and make it unlawful for an unmarried woman to keep roomers and boarders under her roof unless she can furnish satisfactory evidence of good moral character.

If the respectable colored people do not show themselves willing to suffer a little and to cause a little trouble to better the moral condition of the masses, they will show themselves before the world to be unworthy and incompetent. If they seek to do good only where no one is offended they will never find it. Every good thing accomplished has caused somebody to suffer, and the colored people will have to pay the same price for their own improvement that all other races have to pay for their improvement.

Life always is a dull grind to the man who thinks only of his own grail.

Itches with 11 Notches.

Muskogee, I. T.—After serving his country nearly thirty-two years as a United States Deputy Marshal, Bas Reeves, a negro who has killed fourteen men while under official orders, and has served on civilization outposts when he was beset by constant perils, will retire.

"When Marse Bennett goes out of office," he says, "I am going to go to quit, too, and take up farming."

Reeves has served under seven different United States Marshals, Democrats and Republicans, and has been through some terrible fights without ever getting a scratch himself.

With the expiration of the present Federal regime upon the advent of Statehood, he will, as he says, go to farming for a living, laying down for the plough the six-shooter and the repeating rifle, which, in his hand, have been potent factors in ridding two territories of the outlaw the horse thief and the bootlegger.

Reeves is an Arkansan. He is six feet tall, sixty-eight years old, but looks to be only forty. His superiors say he was never known to show the slightest excitement under any circumstances.

He has had many narrow escapes, but though his clothing has been pierced by bullets, he has never been scratched. He says he has never shot until somebody shot at him, whereupon he shot to kill.

Three-Minute Beauty Talks.

The hair will always grow and strive if it receives proper attention, for ill-health is absolutely the only thing that makes the crowning glory unmanageable and hopeless looking. "While there's hair there's hope," isn't a bad adage for the woman whose hair looks lifeless and comes out by the handful.

The only thing to do when the hair fails to respond to home treatment is to go to a good hair specialist and take scalp treatments, consisting of massage and electric brushing.

Then when it is again in good condition to take thorough care of it. A tonic that will stimulate the growth and that may be used nightly is made of half an ounce of tincture of cantharides, seven ounces of listerine and one dram of bisulphate of quinine.

The use of this tonic, with constant brushing and a shampoo every two or three weeks, ought to keep in good condition the most fractious head of hair that ever bothered a woman.

Don't get too enthusiastic, however, and try to make up for past neglect by washing the hair too often, for too frequent shampooing exhausts the nutritive elements of the glands. Never, under and circumstances, disturb dandruff by the use of a fine comb, even if your mother and your grandmother did think it invaluable. The growth will only increase as the skin or scalp is irritated and bruised. —New York Mail.

American Gowns Now Preferred.

The theory of the supremacy of Paris in the way of raiment has had a setback in the fact that Mme. Jusserand, wife of the French Ambassador, has ordered all her spring finery from a Baltimore modiste—gowns, hats, parasols and other necessities. Mme. Jusserand is always a well-dressed woman, but she has never shown a tendency toward extremes in fashions either from Paris or New York. She finds American tailors equally as satisfying as those of the Boulevard de Madeleine, and as for hats, a Washington milliner plans to replace her Paris treasures as regularly as the season change. It is a shock to many American women who cannot wear a gown or hat which does not bear the gold stamp of Duet that the Baroness von Sternburg purchases all those lovely "imported" toilets in New York and Baltimore. For one season only did the handsome Baroness continue to patronize her Paris modiste. Then she tried New York, and became a convert to the "made-in-America" theory. —New York Press.

How to Keep in a Fire.

If a fire is needed to be kept in for a long time, the following method is recommended:

On the top of a glowing fire place some newspapers, damped and folded into tight balls; on the top of this place a layer of damped coal dust, and then again a layer of newspaper balls, finishing with a layer of coal dust.

When the fire is required, it will only be necessary to give a gentle stir and place a few small pieces at the top, and in a short space of time there will be a good fire, says Woman's Life. All elders should be carefully sifted through a small-meshed riddle. They can then be placed at the back of the fire, or next to the wood for lighting, when a clear fire can soon be obtained.

"Yes, I suppose I'm one of the most prominent men in college," remarked the callow sophomore.

"Indeed! What capacity?" asked the friend of the family.

"Eighteen beers eleven cocktails and six whisky straight," replied the young man proudly. —Puck.

DEMONSTRATION AT DOUMA OPENING

Forty Thousand People Participate in It

People Wave Red Flags and Many Are Threats Uttered in Name of Freedom.

NEW PRESIDENT OF DOUMA

St. Petersburg, March 6.—The day, although in itself devoid of incident, was made the occasion of great revolutionary demonstration by the St. Petersburg proletariat and students of the city, which resulted in several encounters between the police and populace and more or less injury to a number of the latter.

The situation was such that authorities finally were forced to fill the streets with military patrols, as in the ominous days of the Trepoff regime.

After adjournment of the house the tumultuous crowd by this time estimated close to 40,000, with red banners flying and accompanied by music of revolutionary chants started toward the central quarter of the city where the palace of the emperor is located.

Few elements of the prelude of "Red Sunday" were lacking, and the command "fire" would have precipitated a similar massacre. But the present prefect of St. Petersburg, General Drachevski, followed another course and dispersed the procession by charges of mounted gendarmes, armed with whips and by an imposing display of force he prevented the demonstrators from reforming.

Fired By Wild Hurrangues.

When the deputies emerged after adjournment of the session the temper of the crowd was fired by speeches from social revolutionary members, a dozen of whom mounted upon the shoulders of their followers and harangued to those present upon the necessity of organizing to support parliament against the government.

Simultaneously red handkerchiefs began to flutter above the heads of the crowd and then crimson banners appeared like magic. The crowd, singing the Marseillaise and battle songs of the Russian revolution moved slowly down the broad Fourchadtskaya avenue, stopping at intervals to listen to speeches and sing.

It demonstrated on the way in front of the house of the chief of secret police where a small force of gendarmes attempted to disperse the people, but soon fell back in the face of the resolute hearing of the manifestants.

Troops Use Whips and Swords.

Meanwhile authorities had hastily concentrated a strong force of gendarmes, which charged the head of the procession when it reached Litolny prospect, one of the main business avenues of the city. The gendarmes piled their whips vigorously and in one charge used the flats of their swords. The crowd twice attempted to reassemble but in each instance it was dispersed.

Gendarmes by this time had been reinforced by detachments of chevalier guards, who galloped hither and thither clearing the roadway amid curses of derision from the sidewalks. Finally a large force of Cossacks, armed with lances, arrived in sight. The spiteful red pennoned weapons, which never before had been brought out in street demonstrations, took all the heart out of the crowd.

Stolypin Fears Assassination.

Another monster celebration was held at the University to celebrate "the victory of revolutionary democracy." The way along the Neva and streets in the neighborhood of the University were densely packed, but there was no interference by troops or police, who arrived on the scene in strong force only after the demonstration had ended.

It was learned today that Premier Stolypin, in order to diminish his chances of possible assassination, would spend the night in the Anrede palace, and it is understood he had taken a suite of rooms in a wing of the palace which he will occupy as long as parliament is in session.

The Speaker.

Feodor Golovin of Moscow, of the opposition for speaker of the duma, is a little over 40 years of age, energetic, aristocratic and clever. He became president of the Moscow Zemstvo during the regime of Grand Duke Sergius and Plevne, but managed to keep their and the people's confidence. M. Teslonko, vice-president, and M. Tolchinskoff, secretary, are Constitutional Democrats from Moscow.

One good thing about this wisdom of the college graduate is that he eventually gets over it.

STANDARD BEATS INSULAR TARIFF

Washington, March 6.—Charges were filed in the treasury department to the effect that the Standard Oil company has been smuggling Uncle Sam in the Philippines. The amount involved is said to be $20,000. The Standard is accused of evading duty on 20,000 cases of oil shipped to the Philippines, during 1901, when the high tariff was in force against oil from this country to the Philippines. Agents of the Standard plead innocence and appear anxious to try the matter out in the Philippine courts.

Perfumed Pillows.

Since those extra little pillows have become so frequently met with as a part of bed furnishings, pine and lavender pillows have both become popular.

Both of them, when made for a bed, are incased in strong muslin covers, over which the pretty little white slip is drawn.

For couches, of course, Jarker and more serviceable materials are used, often for pine pillows a deep yellow, embroidered in a simple outline stitch, in brown or deep bronze greens. For lavender a light lavender, embroidered in a darker shade, or one of the pretty white cretons, covered with blossoms and stripes of lavender makes an attractive covering, says Woman's Life.

If you are going away and can squeeze just one more thing into your trunk, tuck one of the regular baby pillows in. The pillows where you are staying may be stuffy and hard, and that little pillow is just the thing for a hammock or for the nap that you take in the old orchard, stretched out upon rug or steamer blanket, or it may add much to the peace of your nightly slumbers.

Herring Served to Kaiser's Guests.

Berlin—The Kaiser enjoys a game of "skat" as well as any one of his humble subjects and he has instituted select card parties at the Palace. He invites on these occasions chiefly veteran generals and ministers.

The evening's amusement begins with a repast which can by no means be called royal consisting of herrings, butter, potato salad and beer. The points played for are not high, but then the Kaiser is universally known for his frugality, and one could not expect him to play for high stakes for his amusement whatever he may do politically. The points never rise to more than one pennig.

This ventilated oven makes roasts

"juicy" and sweet.

The ovens of all Buck's stoves and ranges are ventilated with fresh—heated—air. In both the range and cook stove the air is drawn into the oven through a series of air ducts—placed near the fire-box. Through perforations in the opposite oven wall, the vapors are drawn up the chimney—thus bringing a constant supply of fresh, hot oxygen into contact with the contents of the oven—which prevents "drying out."

A roast baked in a Buck's oven will lose but little in weight—and will retain that "rich, juicy taste."

This is simply one more reason why you should own a Buck's stove or range—there are many others. Let us tell you about them and about our present liberal terms and prices—today.

A dollar down and a dollar a week will buy one of these splendid stoves. You surely can't afford to miss this chance. Take advantage of it today.
